

Photo Booth | Terms and Conditions – 2016 Jerusalem Writers Festival

1. I confirm that I have registered to the project Photo Booth (hereinafter: the project) and received, read, and accepted the Terms and Conditions, and that the registration to the project will be considered an agreement on my part to these Terms and Conditions.
2. The Project was commissioned by Mishkenot Sha'ananim especially for the 2016 Writers Festival.
3. Background: The Project will be held during the Writers Festival (25.8-28.5). In the Project, the master of short-short stories Alex Epstein will have a ten-minute personal conversation with Festival visitors, who will tell him about the most important event in his or her life, after which, Epstein will write short stories based and inspired by some of these encounters.
4. Mishkenot Sha'ananim is the exclusive owner of all intellectual property rights and copyrights of the stories written as part of The Project.
5. The registration to The Project is via Bimot Ticket Office website. Please note that it is of particular importance to fill out the accurate details required for the registration and ongoing contact.
6. It is not permitted to register another person to The Project without his consent and/or presence in front of the screen during the registration process, and after the terms and conditions have been explained to him.
7. The stories will be published on digital platforms, in the media, book, or any other format decided exclusively by Mishkenot Sha'ananim.
8. Mishkenot Sha'ananim may change the terms and conditions occasionally.
9. Any illegal use of The Project is strictly prohibited.
10. The terms and conditions are subject to Israeli law, and fall under the jurisdiction of the authorized courts in Jerusalem.
